Media StatementInvestment Delivery Authority accepting Expressions of Interest*Wednesday, 1 October 2025

Expressions of Interest (EOIs) have opened today for the first round of projects to be considered by the Investment Delivery Authority (IDA), calling for developments related to data centres and technology, renewable energy and energy security, along with hotels critical to visitor economy growth.

The IDA will support major investment projects in NSW by cutting red tape and coordinating actions across government.

The NSW Government published the EOI criteria earlier this month so businesses and investors could familiarise themselves with the IDA's objectives and eligibility.

It's now time for the private sector to submit their projects.

The EOI round will be open for four weeks, closing on Monday 27 October. The timing of future EOI rounds will be communicated in due course.

Projects that are endorsed by the IDA will receive specialist government support for their major investments in NSW, including from a dedicated planning assessments team within the Department of Planning, Housing and Infrastructure, and from a multi-agency Investment Taskforce based in the Premier's Department.
